2015 FALL NEWSLETTER

Connecticut Horse Council Presidents Message November 2015

Hello everyone, it's that time of year when our thoughts turn to our families, friends and other things we're thankful for. It's also a time when we reflect on what we've accomplished in the old year and resolve to make changes for the new year. The same goes for the CT Horse Council (CHC).

As we look back on 2015, unlike 2014 when a horse and other agriculture tax exemptions, vicious horse and vulnerable user legislation was passed, there was no legislation passed directly associated with horses. However, legislation was passed to keep the Community Investment Act from being eliminated along with other agriculture related issues. The 2015 legislative session found our state legislators focused more on the budget and brings with it the possibility of losing more funding for agriculture in the future. As horse owners it's important that we work with our local leaders and state legislators to gain their support for those issues that are important to us. If you have concerns you would like addressed, or ideas for proposed legislation, please notify the CHC. We can't help you if we don't know what you need.

In 2015, with a great deal of effort by Diane Ciano, Meg Sautter and many others, the improvements at the Lost Silver Mine Horse Camp in Natchaug State Forest have been completed. The improvements included the clearing and leveling of several campsites, pull through campsites for larger trailers, 5, 10 and 15 mile marked trails, campsite markers, a new kiosk, new picnic tables, hitching posts at the common area, and two new solar toilets. For those of you that haven't had an opportunity to visit the horse camp, you should definitely place it on your list of things to do.

During 2015 the CHC, in conjunction with UConn and the CT Farm Bureau Association offered Equine Liability Seminars at UConn and several other locations throughout the state. Also, with the help of Laurianne Goulet, the CHC has begun to update and make changes to the website, check it out at cthorsecouncil.org. In addition, we have affiliated with Association Resource Group (ARG) which will allow us to offer $1,000,000 in excess liability insurance to our members through Equisure Insurance. The insurance will be available at an annual cost of $19 per individual and $38 per family. Please contact us if you are interested. The ARG affiliation will also allow us to offer CHC member discount benefits for prescriptions (equine, pet and personal), Hertz, Veterinary Pet Insurance, Pet Smart, and others. We hope to have the benefits posted on the CHC website soon. CHC has also affiliated with the Connecticut Horse magazine, which CHC members should be receiving in 2016.

Beginning in 2016 the CHC will be holding quarterly meetings in March, June, September and December. We've done to allow members to attend only four meetings per year instead of the nine we used to have. The meetings will still be held at the Eversource building at 107 Selden Road, Belin CT at 7:30 pm on the first Tuesday. This is a change from the nine meetings per year we had and allows us to meet when weather isn't as challenging, we encourage all members to attend.

The CHC thanks you for your support and if you have equine friends that are not members please encourage them to join.

Respectfully, Fred Mastele

Reminder: Membership dues for 2016 are due January 2016. The application is on pages 18-19 of this newsletter. Thank you in advance for your continued support. Thank you to all who have joined the CT Horse Council for 2016 at the Equine Affair.

Guest Speaker

Michael Zulch, Biology Researcher at Elms College in Chicopee, MA as he sets out to answer the question....

What's the Scoop on Poop?

What's the Scoop on Poop?

Equine poop, a lot! But have you considered what your horse poop can say about its overall health?

Join us on

at the CHC-VHP 2016 Annual Meeting to be held at Co. 1 Fire Headquarters, 1485 Main St. Newington, CT. Co. PARK In REAR. Learn about Mike's research and how he analyzes fecal samples in an attempt to further understand how the microbial populations in their gut contribute to equine health and disease.

Seminar is free to attend. Please RSVP to dianemorton2011@gmail.com or 860-690-7632

Free Parasite Fecal Screening

If you are interested in taking part in this research and would like to submit a sample from your horse to be analyzed, that would be great! In return, Mike will do a complimentary Parasite Screening by Fecal Egg Count (FEC). Please see instructions below:

• Using a plastic Ziploc bag, obtain a fresh fecal sample, please collect no more than a few balls.

- Please make sure the sample is collected no more than 6 hours before the event.
 Samples should be collected in the morning of March 19th.
- If possible, place the samples on ICE to control bacterial growth
- Please write your last name on the bag with permanent marker
- If you are submitting a sample from more than one horse, please label them with your last name followed by the horse's nickname (eg. Smith TAKI, Smith DESI, etc.) IT IS IMPORTANT TO KNOW WHICH SAMPLE BELONGS TO WHICH HORSE
- You will be required to register the sample with a questionnaire upon submission. If you would like to receive the questionnaire before-hand, please send Mike an e-mail (below).

Questions? Please contact Mike at ElmsBioResearch@gmail.comor (413) 537-6925

Trails Report:

Pachaug State Forest: Celeste Santos-Rivera reported that the 6, 7 & 14 mile loops have been marked with yellow diamonds. Becky Griffin & Jen Coffey did the marking on all the trails and Celeste wrote the mileage on the tags and marked the roads. Also help was from Linda Krull. Celeste is working on the 10 mile loop.

Natchaug State Forest: The final phase of the solar toilets are now installed!!!

Newtown Bridle Lands Association: The "Trail of Angels"

A memorial trail created by the Newtown Bridle Lands Association, the Catherine Violet Hubbard Foundation, and the 2nd Company Governor's Horse Guard.

The Trail of Angels on the Catherine Violet Hubbard Foundation property connects to other areas of fields and trails on town and state land at Fairfield Hills.

Now that the majority of the work has been completed, please consider donating so that they can continue to raise funds for the items on this special trail that are still needed.

Your donations towards this project are greatly appreciated and impactful towards their goals! Please consider donating at our GoFundMe.com page: https://www.gofundme.com/dn53kqf4

Horse Owner's Corner- Timely Tips – Winter – How to Plan Ahead and Prepare for Your Horse Related Activities?

Dr. Jenifer Nadeau, UConn Equine Extension Specialist and CHC Education Chair

The change in seasons from fall to winter tends to make most horse people in Connecticut want to cringe. But you can enjoy this season more fully if you take some steps to prepare in advance. Soon you will be dashing through the snow with a smile on your face!

Many horse owners will choose to blanket their horse, especially if they plan to show since they will have most likely clipped their horse. Horses can do fine without a blanket if they are allowed to grow a coat. Just remember that horses with wet or short coats will only be comfortable at temperatures of 60 degrees F or more. Those with a moderate coat can be comfortable at 50 degrees F or more and a heavy coat, at 30 degrees F or more. Once temperatures go below that, horses will need more energy to maintain their body temperature and warmth. We usually recommend feeding 1-3 additional flakes of hay to make up this energy, since the heat of fermentation will warm them at lower temperatures. Horses generate this heat because unlike us, they ferment fiber in the hindgut and a side product of this process is heat.

It is important to prepare for slippery footing in the winter. Many a horse or unsuspecting equestrian has been sidelined for falling in this season. Going into winter, keep a careful eye out for places where water may be ponding and try to address any drainage issues before the winter. Have traction devices available for those cleaning stalls, some ideas would be slip on shoe devices which will go right over your boots such as stabilicers or microspikes. You can also use sand, pet-friendly ice melter products, sawdust or kitty litter to reduce the possibility of slipping on paths leading to and from the paddocks, in the gate area, and to/from the manure pile. Have some ready for when you need it. Cooking spray can be used on horses to prevent snowballs from forming but does wear off. Consider using "popper" or snowball pads to prevent this. Some horses may need something like borium to provide greater traction if you plan on continuing to ride. Also have a plan for snow removal, and clean gutters and downspouts and inspect them for the need for repairs so that ice dams are not able to form.

Another thing to prepare for would be a potential power outage. If you require electricity to water your horses, you should make sure that an emergency supply of water will be available in the event of a power outage. You could store this in an area where it won't freeze and have it available in garbage cans with lids or whatever makes getting water most efficient for you. Use of frost free hydrants can also help mitigate this problem. It is very important to keep your horse drinking to prevent colic, and most horses prefer to drink water that is around 65 degrees F in winter, so consider installing water heaters. Be sure to have flashlights, headlamps, etc. on hand as well. This is also not a bad time to check for any faulty wiring in the devices you plan to use in the barn. Many barn fires have started from this issue. Try to avoid using portable heaters as they have been a major source of barn fires as well! In my nightwatching days at Elmendorf Farm in Lexington, Kentucky when I was in college (my part time job filling in for the regular) I once saw a line of fire run from the wall to the portable heater in the guard shack! I was luckily there and able to stamp it out. Imagine if that had been in a barn full of hay and horses!

Following these tips will hopefully have you heading out of the winter season with a spring still in your step, having weathered the storms!! Winter doesn't have to be a miserable time if we take the time to prepare. Remember to look around you and appreciate the beauty of the seasons. After all, we only have one life to live, why not be grateful for our daily opportunities to be around horses and enjoy the nature around us in all its splendor? Please call (860) 486-4471 or email jenifer.nadeau@uconn.edu if you have any questions. Also, check out my web site

Risk Control - Keeping Yourself and Your Property Safe this Winter

By Ronald Hocutt

By now we're all starting to adjust to the new "normal" for winter snow and ice. As we prepare to go into winter this year, we all hope the weather will be mild, but if the last few years are any indication, we'll probably be dealing with some above-normal snow fall. As a general reminder for CHC members, we've compiled a few suggestions to help you keep you and your property safe. We hope these help you, your family, and your horses avoid any of the less pleasant aspects of winter, freeing you up to enjoy some winter riding.

Safety First

As you plan for winter, remember that being safe (and keeping your horses safe) is your number one priority. This includes slips and falls that can put you out of commission for weeks. To that end, invest in good footwear that is slip resistant. Nothing takes the charm out of winter more than throwing your back out by slipping on ice. Cover walkways with slip resistant material and take the time to route any downspouts and other sources of water away from walkways and other traffic areas. It's also a good time to speak to your farrier to discuss the best treatment for your horses hoofs based on your intended winter activities. One additional item to remember – falls from roofs injure many people every year. This is DANGEROUS work and worth hiring a qualified, licensed contractor to take care of it.

For those who trail ride, be sure to dress warmly to avoid cold hands. It's difficult to hold reins when you can't feel your fingers. Also be aware of the snow-blindness that occurs when you bring a horse in from a snow covered pasture into a relatively dark barn. You may have sunglasses on but the horse doesn't, so go slowly and let their eyes adjust to the new light level.

Beware of Collapse Hazards

One of the most devastating and visual reminders of the power of winter is a building collapse. With the snow loads we've been seeing since 2011, many buildings have simply been unable to support the weight. And when the wind blows, the problem gets worse as snow piles up unevenly in valleys and other areas of a roof. To prevent collapse, consider the following:

- If you can use a snow rake from the ground to clear a small roof, go ahead and do it. If not, time to call a qualified insured contractor; the money you'll save is not worth your life and a contractor can do it safely.
- Don't rely on your visual inspection of the roof to determine snow load. Looks are deceiving and the snow load can be much deeper than it appears. If the roof has borne successive large snowfalls without shedding, you can be certain it has a heavy load, and as such should be cleared.
- Don't wait until the beams are creaking to call someone it may already be too late and can be very dangerous for both the occupants of the building (e.g. your horses) and the person clearing the roof.
- New cracks in a home's drywall (especially around corners of doorways) and doors that don't close was well as they used to can be indicators of a high snow load, and time to call a contractor.
- When you do call a contractor, make sure you get a certificate of insurance (a "Cl") that shows both general liability and worker's compensation coverage. Lack of this coverage on the part of the contractor could cost the homeowner significantly in the event of an accident or loss.
- Be certain to get a written estimate of the job in advance and check references. A bad contractor can do more harm than good. Also beware of low-ball bids as they can be an indicator of substandard work

Accidents and building collapses can be devastating, and by following some of the suggestions above, you may avoid some of the more unpleasant aspects of winter, leaving you free to enjoy the beauty of a winter trail ride.

CHC Membership Report

Thank You to all who stopped by the booth at Equine Affaire. It was great to see old friends and meet new horse people. A reminder to all who did not go to Equine Affaire that your membership needs to be renewed as of Jan 1, 2016. Thank you to Fred & Cheryl Mastele, Laurianne Goulet, & Ron Hocutt for helping at the booth. A special thankyou to Laurianne for making the beautiful wreath that was the door prize for joining or renewing your membership. Congrats to Cathy & Jim Clouse on winning the wreath. I also must thank my grandson Broden Wells for loading the truck and helping to put it all away after the weekend. The following people either renewed or joined.
